At Entegris, we embrace our responsibility to incorporate environmental sustainability, resource stewardship, health and safety, and social responsibility into all aspects of our business practices. We approach corporate sustainability with a commitment to develop, enhance, and leverage our technology leadership while acting as responsible stewards of the environment and considering the perspectives of our many stakeholders. By managing our business in accordance with these principles and our PACE values, we achieve greater levels of success for our customers, employees, and shareholders.

Using the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals as a guide, our commitment to sustainability is based on the following principles and actions:

- Exploring, developing, and implementing solutions in our workplaces that protect and improve the health and safety of our team members globally.
- Setting ambitious long-term goals to reduce the environmental footprint of our global business operations, including reducing energy consumption, water use, greenhouse gas emissions, and waste generation.
- Leveraging our leadership position as a developer of innovative technology to seek out and design new product solutions that emphasize resource conservation and end-of-life solutions.
- Partnering with customers, suppliers, industry trade groups, and other stakeholders to develop workable solutions to minimize our impact on the planet.
